

SANCTIONS AND ARBITRATION: PERSPECTIVES FROM SOUTH-EAST ASIA

13 APRIL 2023 | 4PM - 5:30PM (HONG KONG TIME) | ONLINE

SESSION

1

Economic Sanctions: Implications for International Arbitration

Friday, March 24 | 4PM to 5:30PM (Hong Kong Time, UTC +8)

Sanctions invariably influence global commerce, business transactions, and can create added complexities for parties and other stakeholders at the dispute resolution stage. Panelists will join together for a discussion of emerging developments, implications, risks and other unique issues that sanctions may pose to resolution of disputes affected by sanctions. Attendees will hear answers to the most pertinent questions relating to the interplay of arbitration and sanctions in the Asia-Pacific region, and beyond.

2

Impact of Sanctions on Construction Projects

Thursday, April 13 | 4PM to 5:30PM (Hong Kong Time, UTC +8)

Effect of sanctions on logistics and on the overall viability of projects oftentimes could be global. With many projects dependent on foreign supplies, cost of commodities and cash flow, construction projects in the Asia-Pacific region have not been immune from the effect of sanctions. Join the panelists for a discussion on how projects in the region have been and could be impacted by sanctions, types of claims project owners and contractors could raise to dispute liability and claim losses.
